in contrast to many books on islam that focus on political rhetoric and activism this book explores islam s extraordinarily rich cultural and artistic diversity showing how sound music and bodily performance offer a window onto the subtleties and humanity of islamic religious experience through a wide range of case studies from west asia south asia and north africa and their diasporas including studies of sufi chanting in egypt and morocco dance in afghanistan and muslim punk on line the book demonstrates how islam should not be conceived of as being monolithic or monocultural how there is a large disagreement within islam as to how music and performance should be approached such disagreements being closely related to debates about orthodoxy secularism and moderate and fundamental islam and how important cultural activities have been and continue to be for the formation of muslim identity north africa and west africa monograph of the tijaniyya order of the islamic religion including its political aspects prior to during and following the colonial era draws on court records and the city s dazzling literary tradition to explore the material culture of premodern damascus and provides an unusual and intimate account of the choices constraints and compromises that defined consumer behavior
