the last kindling conference was organized by dr juhn wada and held at the univer sity of british columbia vancouver b c in 1989 in the intervening years research on kin dling has proceeded at an explosive pace and significant advances have been made in our understanding of the molecular biological anatomical and physiological substrates of kin dling as well as in our appreciation of the age dependent effects and complex behavioral consequences of kindling its sensitivity to drugs and its relevance to the clinical epilepsies in order to review these developments and to provide researchers with an opportunity to in teract face to face and discuss the issues that preoccupy us all we organized the fifth interna tional conference on kindling in victoria b c in the summer of 1996 most of the stalwarts in kindling research were invited as were a number of investigators whose research on kindling has become prominent in the past few years we continue to miss the late graham goddard the discoverer of kindling and were saddened by the recent death of eric lothman a prolific researcher and clinician who would have been a prominent participant we were deeply disturbed to learn of the death of frank morrell one of the earliest kindlers and an eminent neurologist who died several months after our conference this revised second edition provides the reader friendly orientation and strong research base of the first edition along with substantial updates in three key technical areas neuroscience action research and neural networks this book offers the latest research developments in imaging methods declarative knowledge associative learning and implicit vs explicit memory and countless other topics it fully integrates the important advances in cognitive psychology during the last decade into its presentation of traditional mainstream topics shows links to allied disciplines such as artificial intelligence computational linguistics and problem solving to add interest and context for professionals in the field of psychology why do we eat is it instinct despite the necessity of food anxieties about what and how to eat are widespread and persistent in appetite and its discontents elizabeth a williams explores contemporary worries about eating through the lens of science and medicine to show us how appetite once a matter of personal inclination became an object of science williams charts the history of inquiry into appetite between 1750 and 1950 as scientific and medical concepts of appetite shifted alongside developments in physiology natural history psychology and ethology she shows how in the eighteenth century trust in appetite was undermined when researchers who investigated ingestion and digestion began claiming that science alone could say which ways of eating were healthy and which were not she goes on to trace nineteenth and twentieth century conflicts over the nature of appetite between mechanists and vitalists experimentalists and bedside physicians and localists and holists illuminating struggles that have never been resolved by exploring the core disciplines in investigations in appetite and eating williams reframes the way we think about food nutrition and the nature of health itself
