The Ottoman Empire began in 1453 when Mehmed the Conqueror entered Constantinople on a white horse and it ended in 1924 when the last Caliph Abdulmecid hurriedly left on the Orient Express. This book gives an account of Constantinople and its ruling family.

In 1453, Mehmed the Conqueror entered Constantinople on a white horse. This was the start of the Ottoman love affair with the city that lasted until 1924 when the last Caliph Abdulmecid hurriedly left on the Orient Express. For almost five centuries, Constantinople with its enormous racial and cultural diversity, was the centre of the dramatic and often depraved story of an extraordinary dynasty. Philip Mansel's highly acclaimed book on the history of a city and a dynasty is an absorbing account of the interaction between the vibrantly cosmopolitan capital, the city of the world's desire, and its ruling family.

A widely acclaimed biography from the bestselling author of The Romanovs, one of the great love stories of history. The Economist between Catherine the Great and the wildly flamboyant and talented Prince Potemkin captures the genius of two extraordinary Enlightenment figures and of the age. As well as the Wall Street Journal, Catherine the Great was a woman of notorious passion and imperial ambition. Prince Potemkin was the love of her life and her co-ruler. Together they seized Ukraine and Crimea, territories that define the Russian sphere of influence to this day. Their affair was so tumultuous that they negotiated an arrangement to share power, leaving each of them free to take younger lovers. But these twin souls never stopped loving each other, drawing on the pair's intimate letters and on vast research. Simon Sebag Montefiore restores these imperial partners to their rightful place as titans of their age. Biography in the grand tradition, riveting. The author is a gifted storyteller. The Washington Post
