what separates good architecture from great architecture the difference lies in the details the way an architect chooses to treat architectural detailingscreens and walls doors and windows roofs bridges and stairscan transform the merely ordinary into the extraordinary detail in process the second volume in the new asbuilt series features twenty five awe inspiring projects characterized by an unusual synthesis of aesthetics and materials the sunshade at morphosis s student recreation center in cincinnati the embossed and perforated copper skin of herzog de meuron s de young museum in san francisco the handrails at mir rivera architects lake austin footbridge in austin the stairs at heatherwick studio s longchamp store in new york city plus twenty more editors christine killory and ren davids have collected the best work of the past two years including new buildings by some of today s most daring and detail obsessed architects norman foster james carpenter john ronan renzo piano marmol radziner tadao ando steven holl jean nouvel david chipperfield and sanaa comprehensively documented detail in process includes the plans details and large scale sections needed to appreciate the innovative ways these architects have responded to complicated design problems five hundred herzog de meuron projects from around the world in one book one image of each in the aoyama district of tokyo a mixed use neighborhood of low rise buildings where not a square meter of land has been left unoccupied the swiss architecture team of herzog de meuron has built a new store for prada in this chunky silvery book they meticulously illustrate the creative process that led to the realization of a house and a plaza a tall and narrow kaleidoscope like structure that houses a two story retail space and multiple levels of offices backed by an outdoor space for the public a rarity in crowded tokyo the finished structure encased in a visually porous shell or skin is as decorative as it is architectural or as architectural as it is decorative and is both metaphorically and literally linked to its surrounding environment and to the idea of the garment here is the story of a theoretically and structurally complex building told lovingly and simply by its architects through words models sketches photographs and architectural renderings a gorgeous gargantuan selection of herzog de meuron's key projects with documentation by leading photographers essays and archival materials the complete works of pritzker prize winning swiss architects herzog de meuron comprise around 600 buildings in nearly 40 countries this book is a personal selection by art historian stanislaus von moos and architect arthur rüegg of 25 of the most important projects from throughout herzog de meuron's career from tate modern in london the elbphilharmonie in hamburg and the ricola storage building in laufen to the parking structure at 1111 lincoln road in miami through photographs by balthasar burkhard hannah villiger margherita spiluttini iwan baan thomas ruff and wolfgang tillmans along with detailed technical data plans and bibliographic references twentyfive x herzog de meuron encapsulates all central aspects of the work of these influential architects two comprehensive essays reveal herzog de meuron's working methods von moos explores the influence of perception in painting sculpture and photography on their practice while rüegg examines their ambivalent view of the built world and how it is expressed from project to project the book also includes previously unpublished photographs by pierre de meuron and jacques herzog's postcard collection unexplored visual archives with a direct influence on their architectural work jacques herzog pierre de meuron with their partners harry gugger and christine binswanger undoubtedly rank amongst the leading architects worldwide volume 3 of their complete works is now being published in an updated new edition enlarged by some 40 pages and approximately 80 colour illustrations at the time of the first edition a number of the projects were under construction these have now been completed and are documented with photographs the laboratory building of hoffmann la roche in basel the project in the city center five courtyards in munich the st jakob football stadium in basel and the residential buildings on the rue des suisses in paris product description who hasn't heard of the internationally renowned architecture firm herzog de meuron of switzerland and its unprecedented rise since its founding in 1978 how do these architects always succeed with innovative approaches forging individuality and employing classical materials in heretofore unknown ways in their designs where do they find the inspiration for their unique ideas and how do they achieve such a confident implementation of their designs how detailed is the planning at herzog de meuron we scoured our archives at detail and uncovered more than 25 publications since 2000 including reports interviews technical contributions and several project files this monograph from the detail publishing house about herzog de meuron delves as usual a bit deeper behind the scenes and describes processes all while highlighting one thing plenty of construction details oclc contributions by remy zaugg herzog de meruon between 1996 and 2000 the renowned architects herzog de meuron built a new research centre together with a library auditorium and cafeteria for the pharmaceutical company roche in basle situated on the outskirts of the town on the edge of the industrial area the building was to include a closed section for laboratories yet should also be publicly accessible the ideal starting point for an interdisciplinary solution artist romy zaugg worked together with the architects developing the colours used in particular he created a dramatic blue wall which separates public and restricted areas this publication documents the entire project from its genesis to the completed construction using texts sketches plans and photographs more than a mere monograph this book provides a fascinating glimpse into the creative collaboration occurring between architects and artists the experience of movement of moving through buildings cities landscapes and in everyday life is the only involvement most individuals have with the built environment on a daily basis user experience is so often neglected in architectural study and practice architecture and movement tackles this complex subject for the first time providing the wide range of perspectives needed to tackle this multi disciplinary topic organised in four parts it documents the architect s planner s or designer s approach looking at how they have sought to deploy buildings as a promenade and how they have thought or written about it concentrates on the individual s experience and particularly on the primacy of walking which engages other senses besides the visual engages with society and social rituals and how mutually we define the spaces through which we move both by laying out routes and boundaries and by celebrating thresholds analyses how we deal with promenades which are not experienced directly but via other mediums such as computer models drawings film and television the wide selection of contributors include academics and practitioners and discuss cases from across the us uk europe and asia by mingling such disparate voices in a carefully curated selection of chapters the book enlarges the understanding of architects architectural students designers and planners alerting them to the many and complex issues involved in the experience of movement standing on the south bank of the thames opposite the dome of st paul s cathedral sir giles gilbert scott s vast brick edifice with its tower of 325 feet dominates the scenery and ranks among the most imposing structures of central london yet after its closure in 1981 the bankside power station was rendered invisible to the public eye by its redundancy and the frequent threat of demolition the reopening of bankside in may 2000 as london s first national gallery of modern and contemporary art restores the grandeur of scott s design and regenerates a much neglected area of the city the conversion to art gallery by the swiss architects herzog and de meuron is marked by its extreme simplicity at once enhancing the physical presence of the original architecture and completely transforming its derelict and impenetrable interior into an accessible light filled exhibition center the tremendous affinity of contemporary art with ex industrial settings has inspired a design that retains the monumental scale of the turbine hall and skillfully offers a range of spaces for widely differing types of art on the multiple floors of the old boiler house this publication follows the story of the bankside project and presents a stunning photographic account of every stage of its transformation including an interview with jacques herzog and nicholas serota director of the tate it provides a detailed analysis of herzog and de meuron s design and redefines the tate s role within contemporary culture jacques herzog and jeff wall are among art and architecture s most successful representatives and herzog de meuron s architecture in the art domain e g tate modern london has since the 70s attracted particular attention wall for his part has repeatedly in his motifs sought dialogue with architecture his photography of herzog de meuron s dominus winery 1999 in california represents the point of departure for a discussion on the relationship between art and photography questions arise as a result on topics such as photogenic architecture the construction of pictures and buildings and the time factor
