challenging ideas is a selection of articles which address the intersections between theory and empirical research in general the contributions to the volume focus on how imaginations of the temporal relationship between past and present might inform theory as well as empirical research it is divided into two parts the first of which memory looks at the memory turn in the discipline of history and includes investigations into the relationship between past and present in the working through of trauma and reflections on the relationship between media memory collective memory and trauma the second part of the volume history looks at the intersections between social science political theory and the writing of history this section includes reflections on how the historian's archival work might inform the construction of social and political theory and explorations of the temporal relationship between past and present at work in the archives the contributions to this volume encourage historically oriented scholars to approach their work with an active interest in disciplines close to their topic and a reflexive attentiveness to the broader power relations within which they work they offer different perspectives on the intrinsic relationship between past and present at work in the interactions between theory and empirical research and thereby give impetus to challenging ideas and to the challenging of ideas in the social sciences and in the humanities

a clear and comprehensive framework for bridging the widening gap between theorists and empiricists in social science the credibility revolution with its emphasis on empirical methods for causal inference has led to concerns among scholars that the canonical questions about politics and society are being neglected because they are no longer deemed answerable theory and credibility stakes out an opposing view presenting a new vision of how working together the credibility revolution and formal theory can advance social scientific inquiry this authoritative book covers the conceptual foundations and practicalities of both model building and research design providing a new framework to link theory and empirics drawing on diverse examples from political science it presents a typology of the rich set of interactions that are possible between theory and empirics this typology opens up new ways for scholars to make progress on substantive questions and enables researchers from disparate traditions to gain a deeper appreciation for each other's work and why it matters theory and credibility shows theorists how to create models that are genuinely useful to empirical inquiry and helps empiricists better understand how to structure their research in ways that speak to theoretically meaningful questions the first systematic study of the aesthetic evaluations that scientists pass on their theories considers the issues of social and sustainable entrepreneurship this title tackles lingering definitional issues such as the distinctions between social sustainable and environmental entrepreneurship or proposes social entrepreneurship research agendas based on key research questions found in prior studies a reference tool divided into three sections which correspond to the types of conclusions possible regarding the relationship between political theory and political analysis complementary integral and mutually exclusive this volume seeks to show how realist social research allows readers to make genuine discoveries of relevance to social policy which recognise the complexity of the real world
