urban space which took place in Guimarães Portugal on 21-22 November 2018. The conference aims to explore the emerging dynamics within the scope of the Internet of Things (IoT) and the new science of cities. The papers discuss fusion of heterogeneous urban sources, understanding urban data using machine learning and mining techniques, urban analytics, urban IoT infrastructures, crowd sourcing techniques, incentivization and gamification, urban mobility and intelligent transportation systems, real time urban information systems, and more. The proceedings discuss innovative technologies that navigate industry and connectivity sectors in transportation, utility, public safety, healthcare, and education. The authors also discuss the increasing deployments of IoT technologies and the rise of the so-called sensor cities, which are opening up new avenues of research opportunities towards that future.

The authors of this groundbreaking work argue that traditional theories of the media, which locate the site of media effects in the individual and the source of those effects in the content, provide inadequate explanations of our modern mediated society. In mediated communication, they propose an alternative accommodation theory which describes the interpenetration of three elements: media, texts, and our daily lives. The authors present a wide overview of the nature of communication and its social action, the media industry, and the contexts of reception. They explore current theories on the notion of effect, present methodologies which generate evidence for these explanations, and show how theory and method
