over several decades scholarship in new testament and early christianity has drawn attention both to the ways in which ancient mediterranean conceptions of embodiment sexual difference and desire were fundamentally different from modern ones and also to important lines of genealogical connection between the past and the present the result is that the study of gender and sexuality in early christianity has become an increasingly complex undertaking this is a complexity produced not only by the intricacies of conflicting historical data but also by historicizing approaches that query the very terms of analysis whereby we inquire into these questions in the first place yet at the same time recent work on these topics has produced a rich and nuanced body of scholarly literature that has contributed substantially to our understanding of early christian history and also proved relevant to ongoing theological and social debates the oxford handbook of gender and sexuality in the new testament provides a roadmap to this lively scholarly landscape introducing both students and other scholars to the relevant problems debates and issues leading scholars in the field offer original contributions by way of synthesis critical interrogation and proposals for future questions hypotheses and research trajectories

this book attempts to read the character of mary in the infancy narratives of luke and matthew alongside the lives of experiences of the indian surrogate mother living a postcolonial india reading mary through these lenses helps us see this mother and her actions in a more ambivalent light as a mother whose love is both violent and altruistic mary goode does not want to go to south sudan she has to more than that her arrival sparks a series of events that will clash with the dark plans of a power hungry politician mary represents an opportunity to unite a divided community a run down school needs help teachers need jobs and then there is mary kuol it is just possible that a strong woman could walk in the footsteps of her dead husband to bring a solution the problem is that mary is as timid as a mouse and has never been to africa the journey that mary undertakes is not just measured in miles but hugs smiles and tears in truth mary has no idea what she is doing help will come friendships will grow and surprising things will happen good and bad no one sees what is coming who ever could believe that in a journey that starts in innocence a good samaritan must to go the extra mile god is good at taking the weak and unlikely to do the most surprising things but this is africa where nothing is simple or straight forward how will she cope
