explores how wetiko covertly operates both out in the world and within our minds and how it underlies every form of self destruction both individual and collective reveals how wetiko's power lies in our blindness to it and examines how people across the ages have symbolized wetiko to help see it and heal it. It examines the concept of wetiko as it appears in the teachings of the kabbalah, hawaiian kahuna, shamanism, mystical christianity, and the work of C. G. Jung in its native american meaning. Wetiko is an evil cannibalistic spirit that can take over people's minds, leading to selfishness, insatiable greed, and consumption as an end in itself, destructively turning our intrinsic creative genius against our own humanity. Revealing the presence of wetiko in our modern world behind every form of destruction, our species is carrying out both individual and collective. Paul Levy shows how this mind virus is so embedded in our psyches that it is almost undetectable, and it is our blindness to it that gives wetiko its power. Yet, as Levy reveals in striking detail by recognizing this highly contagious mind parasite, by seeing wetiko we can break free from its hold and realize the vast creative powers of the human mind. Levy explores how artists, philosophers, and spiritual traditions across the ages have been creatively symbolizing this deadly pathogen of the psyche so as to help us see it and heal it. He examines the concept of wetiko as it appears in the teachings of the kabbalah, hawaiian kahuna, shamanism, buddhism, and mystical christianity, and through esoteric concepts like egregores, demons, counterfeiting spirits, and psychic vampires. He reveals how visionary thinkers such as C. G. Jung, Sri Aurobindo, Philip K. Dick, Colin Wilson, Nicolas Berdyaev, and René Girard each point to wetiko in their own unique and creative way. He explores how the projection of the shadow self, scapegoating, is the underlying psychological mechanism fueling wetiko, and examines wetiko in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic, showing that we can reframe the pandemic so as to receive the lessons and opportunities embedded in it, revealing how the power of imagination can cure the wetiko mind virus. Levy underscores how important it is for each of us to bring forth the creative spirit within us, which helps shed the light of consciousness on wetiko, taking away its power over us while simultaneously empowering ourselves.

Science Fiction and Psychology explores science fiction literature's varied use of psychological discourses from the late nineteenth century to the end of the twentieth. The readings explore the varied employment in science fiction of ideas from five key psychological schools: evolutionary psychology, psychoanalysis, behaviourism, existential humanism, and cognitivism, and conclude by examining psychology's use of science fiction.

The essays in this volume use a humanistic viewpoint to explore the evolution and significance of the vampire in literature from the romantic era to the millennium.
