from the bestselling author of the man who mistook his wife for a hat fascinating portraits of neurological disorder in which men women and one extraordinary child emerge as brilliantly adaptive personalities whose conditions have not so much debilitated them as ushered them into another reality here are seven detailed narratives of neurological patients including a surgeon consumed by the compulsive tics of tourette s syndrome unless he is operating an artist who loses all sense of color in a car accident but finds a new sensibility and creative power in black and white and an autistic professor who cannot decipher the simplest social exchange between humans but has built a career out of her intuitive understanding of animal behavior sacks combines the well honed mind of an academician with the verve of a true storyteller in an anthropologist on mars oliver sacks uses case studies to illustrate the myriad ways in which neurological conditions can affect our sense of self our experience of the world and how we relate to those around us writing with his trademark blend of scientific rigour and human compassion he describes patients such as the colour blind painter or the surgeon with compulsive tics that disappear in the operating theatre patients for whom disorientation and alienation but also adaptation are inescapable facts of life an inexhaustible tourist at the farther reaches of the mind sacks presents in sparse unsentimental prose the stories of seven of his patients the result is as rich vivid and compelling as any collection of short fictional stories independent on sunday now part of the picador collection a series showcasing the very best of modern literature neurological patients oliver sacks once wrote are travellers to unimaginable lands an anthropologist on mars offers portraits of seven such travellers including a british columbia surgeon consumed by the compulsive tics of tourette s syndrome unless he is operating an artist who loses all sense of colour in a car accident but finds a new sensibility and creative power in black and white and an autistic professor who cannot decipher the simplest social exchange between humans but has built a career out of her intuitive understanding of animal behaviour garcia began writing about autism because he was frustrated by the media s coverage of the myths that the disorder is caused by vaccines the narrow portrayals of autistic people as white men working in silicon valley as a latino a graduate of the university of north carolina and working as a journalist covering politics in washington d c garcia realized he needed to put into writing what so many autistic people have been saying for years autism is a part of their identity they don t need to be fixed from education to healthcare he explores how autistic people wrestle with systems that were not built with them in mind adapted from jacket this new user friendly handbook designed to support parents whose children have diagnosed with asd provides answers on a range of topics in brief articles arranged into alphabetical categories the politics of autism is a forthright appraisal of controversies behind reports of rising autism prevalence and methods of its diagnosis the need for a sea change in autism education the anti vaccine movement and unproven homeopathies and of autism research priorities it provides guidelines for policy changes and changes to clinical practice with the goal of improving the lives of individuals and their families living with autism

a voice for the community of lds scholars the present volume attempts to integrate two streams of cognitive research which often run parallel largely conceptual investigations on the overall framework of human cognition and the much more empirical study of neurocognitive developmental disorders in this case autism the book is partly a conceptual analysis exploring the issue of domain specificity and its place in cognitive theory but it also offers a detailed summary of the phenomena of autism a critical evaluation of its cognitive psychological models and presents new empirical findings on the complexity of beyond childhood development of theory of mind ability in autism besides the integration and an overview of these three major themes the novelty of the presented theses lies primarily in the comprehensiveness of the offered conceptual framework for domain specificity and in the empirical findings which strongly suggest that functioning theory of mind ability and non theory of mind compensatory strategies co exist
