this book puts forward a new angle of understanding the society of states in the milieu of the contemporary world the absence of a regulatory mechanism i e anarchy has been the fundamental issue of international relations this book explains how the normative imperatives information and communication technology ict and nuclear deterrence generated ambiance have poised the states in a society where they are bound to follow certain normative imperatives that dilute the color and meaning of anarchy and obliges the states to act in a certain way it develops a theoretical proposition with regard to state power defined in terms of the capability of determining the outcomes the proposition first elaborates how international institutions foster normative imperatives then in line with this ontology it narrows down the focus solely on the power of the states in the contemporary world it explains how the power that can determine the outcome today is holistic in nature comprising both materialistic and normative factors in the next step it tailors the proposition in a way so as to employ it for a specific empirical work the book does not end just positing the theoretical proposition the proposition is testified through some case studies with regard to climate negotiations under the unfccc the empirical part not only serves to examine the plausibility of the theoretical proposition but it also presents the logic of the major actors and the politics with respect to some of the major issues of climate change i e mitigation funding policy and mechanism and adaptation the scholars in this arena climate activists and climate conscious people in general would find this book worth reading as it kindles a different angle to understand the issues in the context of the contemporary world and as it elaborates the logic framing process and mechanism of reaching outcomes through complex negotiation process no other work has so far analyzed the issues covering the entire period of 21 apex unfccc negotiations that led to the paris agreement apart from university libraries this book thus has the prospect to be sold in the markets targeting the academicians climate change experts bureaucrats negotiators and the common readers the author explores the impact on poetic practice in the 1970s and 1980s of recent theoretical developments offering a criticism of the work of seamus heaney and of poets including michael hofmann reassessing life on mars and providing retrospective surveys of fleur adcock and others so many male critics have attacked ireland s contemporary women poets whether through hostile reviews outright silence or condescending praise that the impression has been created that very few men appreciate these women's poetry. Gonzalez has produced the first book ever to appear in Irish studies in which men make it a point to praise literature written by Irish women. Included are two essays studying the structure of Eavan Boland's poetry sequences, some close readings of Medbh McGuckian's most challenging poems, and the first formal scholarly pieces ever devoted exclusively to Paula Meehan, Rita Ann Higgins, and Mary O'Malley. Additional chapters treat the works of Eilean Ni Chuilleanain and Nuala Ni Dhomhnaill. Women poets have made substantial contributions to Irish literature, particularly in the last few decades. However, so many male critics have attacked Ireland's women poets, whether through hostile reviews, outright silence, or condescending praise that the impression has been created that very few men appreciate these women's poetry. With some notable exceptions, most academic appraisals by men have been less than enthusiastic. Many women also point to the treatment these poets receive in various anthologies which typically include only token portions of literature written by women. In his book, Gonzalez has responded to these slights by offering a forum to a significant number of men to express their highest praise for Ireland's women poets. Until now, no book has ever appeared in Irish studies in which men make it a point to praise literature written by Irish women. In this book, Gonzalez includes two essays on each of Ireland's best-known women poets: Eavan Boland, Eilean Ni Chuilleanain, Nuala Ni Dhomhnaill, and Medbh McGuckian. Three other essays are the first formal scholarly pieces entirely dedicated to Paula Meehan, Rita Ann Higgins, or Mary O'Malley. In his pioneering effort, Gonzalez helps establish the place of these contemporary women poets in the Irish literary canon, corrects the popular misconception that male critics are unresponsive to their works, and encourages further exploration of Irish women poets by male scholars and critics.
