erec and enide was the first arthurian romance composed around a d 1170 also the first of five extant works by french court poet chretien de troyes erec and enide newly married and lost in erotic conjugal bliss are brought back to reality when gossip suggests that erec son of a king prefers life at home to the existence of a fearless heroic knight celtic legend classical motifs and ecclesiastical elements are masterfully interwoven in this tale whose colloquial translation brings to life the clashing sounds of battle de troyes s multiple poetic tones and colorful expressions and the rhyme and meter of the original both scholars and general readers will surely enjoy this story of the erec s quest for honor glory and the arthurian way chrétien de troyes s reference to macrobius on the art of description is indicative of the link between the vernacular literary tradition of rewriting and the latin tradition of imitation crucial to this study are writings that bridge the span between elementary school exercises in imitation and the masterpieces of the art in latin and french the book follows the development of the medieval art of imitation through macrobius and commentaries on horace s art of poetry and then applies it to the interpretation of works on the trojan war consent in love and marriage and lyric and vernacular insertions a special number devoted to celtic material this special number of the well established series arthurian literature is devoted to celtic material contributions from leading experts in celtic studies cover welsh irish and breton material from medieval texts to oral traditions surviving into modern times the volume reflects current trends and new approaches in this field whilst also making available in english material hitherto inaccessible to those with no reading knowledge of the celtic languages ceridwen lloyd morgan has published widely in the field of arthurian studies she is currently honorary research fellow in the school of welsh cardiff university first english translations of later adaptations of chrétien s romances a vital source for the development of arthurian romance in the middle of the fifteenth century two anonymous writers translated into prose chrétien de troyes's first verse romances erec and cligés dating from the twelfth century for the circle of philip the good duke of burgundy for a long time unfairly dismissed as trite and slavish renderings of chrétien's masterful narratives the prose erec and cligés actually merit careful study in their own right for these middle french reworkings adapt the earlier romances to fit the interests of the fifteenth century public the authors updated not only the language but also the descriptions of chivalric exploits tourneys and siege warfare furthermore they showed real ingenuity in the way they modified the story line clarifying motivation rescripting characters and shortening many of the descriptions the romances offer valuable insights into the evolution of arthurian romance the history of reception of chrétien's work and the mentality and culture of one of the most remarkable courts to flourish in the late middle ages this volume presents the first english prose translations of the writings accompanied by an introduction presenting the historical cultural and literary context and notes joan tasker grimbert is professor of french at the catholic university of america washington dc carol j chase is professor emerita of french at knox college galesburg illinois drawing on a range of approaches in cultural gender and literary studies this book presents chrétien de troyes's erec et enide as a daring and playful exploration of scandal terror and anxiety in court cultures through an interdisciplinary reading it locates erec et enide the first surviving arthurian romance in french in various contexts from broad cultural and historical questionings such as medieval vernacular modernity's engagement with the weight of its classical inheritance to the culturally fecund and politically turbulent histories of the families of eleanor of aquitaine and henry ii plantagenet where previous accounts of the tale have not uncommonly presented chrétien's poem as a decorous resolution of tensions between dynastic marriage and fin amors between personal desire and social duty this reading sees these forces as in permanent and irresolvable tension the poem's key scenes haunted whether mischievously or traumatically by questions and skeletons from various closets these articles are mainly concerned with medieval French literature particularly those areas in which the honorand of the volume Rupert T. Pickens has distinguished himself Old French Arthurian romance Marie de France chanson de geste later poetry including villon and the Occitan troubadour lyric among the contributors are some of the most significant scholars from the U.S., Canada, France, Switzerland and the U.K. working in Old French studies today the volume will be of interest to specialists in Old French Occitan and medieval literature generally some of the articles deal with relatively unknown works and all are informed by current developments in medieval literary studies
