to better understand the PLA's ability to employ its developing capabilities in a variety of potential scenarios this year's workshop examined how the PLA learns by doing

specifically through its exercises and noncombat operations at home and overseas and through key logistical and theoretical developments key findings are 1 recent plan exercises and operations point to an increasing interest in developing expeditionary naval capabilities and a presence in distant seas suggesting that a move beyond the current near seas focus is both possible and an extension of existing efforts 2 pla ground force exercises rather than aiming to intimidate others by demonstrating the ability to project power beyond china s borders focus on moving military power within china both to defend china s borders and perhaps as a prelude to military restructuring in which smaller but more mobile formations could replace larger and more static ones

to better understand the pla s ability to employ its developing capabilities in a variety of potential scenarios this volume examines how the pla learns by doing specifically through its exercises and noncombat operations at home and overseas and through key logistical and theoretical developments key findings are 1 recent pla exercises and operations point to an increasing interest in developing expeditionary naval capabilities and a presence in distant seas suggesting that a move beyond the current near seas focus is both possible and an extension of existing efforts 2 pla ground force exercises rather than aiming to intimidate others by demonstrating the ability to project power beyond china s borders focus on moving military power within china both to defend china s borders and perhaps as a prelude to military restructuring in which smaller but more mobile formations could replace larger and more static ones 3 through its participation in international military exercises as well as peacekeeping operations and humanitarian aid and disaster relief missions the pla is gaining greater capabilities to deploy outside of china s borders for a variety of missions and 4 pla operations are increasingly supported by a modern civilian integrated military logistics network though a lack of overseas bases continues to limit the effectiveness of this network as it pertains to overseas power projection capabilities

the papers presented here are a timely and critical look at an evolving and expanding chinese military and provide context for the changes we may yet see as the pla continues to modernize as the uspacom commander i seek to better understand china in aspects that further our ability to find common areas of interest reduce miscalculation and contribute to regional stability greater insight into the pla is essential to this effort as the chinese military matures grows and ventures farther from china s territory the regional and global implications for the united states and uspacom as well as our allies and partners will be complex yet critical to our understanding of china s evolving international role and influence therefore accurate and timely assessments of the changes taking place within the pla are essential to understanding how the chinese are matching military power with their broader policy aims the outstanding scholarship in this jointly sponsored study by ssi nbr and uspacom is an important contribution toward this end the judgments in this volume provide unique and valuable insights on how the pla is adapting its training to its perception of the security environment this does not just include how it is resourcing organizing and training its forces but also how the PLA thinks about warfare and the threats they currently face through participation in international military exercises as well as peacekeeping operations PKO and humanitarian assistance and disaster relief. As the PLA is gaining greater experience in carrying out a broader spectrum of missions for example the lessons learned from counter piracy missions in the Gulf of Aden as well as internal transregional deployment exercises are impacting the way China responds to issues ranging from domestic natural disasters to cooperative security efforts requiring the projection and sustainment of military power beyond China's borders. Monitoring these developments is not only key to our understanding of China's perceptions of the security environment but also to identifying opportunities to further develop cooperative capacity in the areas of nontraditional security threats. A growing area of cooperation between our two militaries:

1. Introduction: PLA lessons learned from increasingly realistic exercises
2. China's Navy prepares domestic naval exercises
3. PLA naval exercises with international partners
4. Controlling the four quarters: China trains, equips, and deploys a modern mobile People's Armed Police force
5. Clarity of intentions: People's Liberation Army transregional exercises to defend China's borders
6. Looking good on paper: PLA participation in the peace mission
7. Multilateral military exercise
8. PLA engagement with international partners
9. PLA involvement in international peacekeeping and humanitarian assistance and disaster relief
10. PLA logistics
11. Lessons learned in the field
12. The agony of learning: The PLA's transformation in military affairs

The Chinese Army Today is a comprehensive study of the Chinese military examining its ground forces in a level of detail not found in any other contemporary works. This new revised edition has been fully updated to take account of recent changes in the institution. In 1999 the military modernization program of the Chinese People's Liberation Army increased in intensity and achieved a focus not seen in the previous two decades based primarily on actual Chinese sources. This book details these changes and puts them in the context of the many traditions that still remain. Written by a retired professional military officer who has served in China, the text uses first hand observation of the Chinese military and three decades of military experience to weave many disparate threads from official Chinese statements, documents and media reports into an integrated whole. The author also conducts an in depth exploration into the many forces that constitute the People's Liberation Army. This is an essential book for all students of Chinese military and security affairs and highly recommended for students of Chinese politics, Asian security and international relations and strategic studies in general.

presents the results of a conference that brought together many of the nation's top experts to evaluate issues of structure and process in the People's Liberation Army.
