in this book jeremy kim criticizes current korean and asian american homiletical strategies for their lack of a theological point of view on social suffering he argues that preachers must develop an alternative theological homiletical viewpoint on social suffering one that has pastoral and prophetic approaches these two approaches offer people a refuge and a voice not only in the church community but also in the larger social community thus the author suggests that preachers adopt the biblical lament highlighting its dual tasks of compassion the pastoral dimension and resistance the prophetic dimension the author who is a non western asian american preacher also incorporates east asian philosophical and hermeneutical research on ren a positive element of confucianism into his argument he applies this core concept of confucianism to the preacher s homiletical strategy toward social suffering thus the author proposes that korean preachers should recover ren which

Christian worship is always undergoing change as it adapts to particular contexts and concerns. This collection of essays explores ways in which liturgical change happened to address particular historical and theological concerns, 2 that worship and preaching are currently undergoing transition, and 3 that aspects of worship are in need of transformation in order to address primary issues of our time with a focus on environmental and ecological concerns. Special attention is paid to the role of the sacraments and to preaching with an emphasis on the need to connect worship with daily life. These essays show readers ways that liturgical renewal worked in the past as well as offer a persuasive case for continual renewal that responds to key issues in our contemporary lives.

In living with the sermon, readers will find a friendly companion to the preaching life with humor, personal stories, theological musings, and practical signposts for those who live with the sermon. Robert Hoch-Yidokodilona explores the highs and lows of the preaching life; you will learn not only techniques for preaching but also how the life of the preacher is haunted by holy things. There is, according to Robert, a wink and peek to the preaching life, some playful mischief, some mystery, and yet in a practical spirit, down to earth signposts to help along the way. Whether you have been in the pulpit for many years or have just begun the journey, this work will add to your wisdom and joy in the preaching life.

We in mainline churches are uneasy, maybe even scared. Why are our voices not heard after all we are the reasonable Christians, the updated Christians, the respectable ones who have dominated the cultural landscape since colonial times? This book presumes that trying to reverse the loss of our traditional status in society is both futile and beside the point. What is called for when we find ourselves in a state of crisis is to rediscover the big picture, the Christian hope projected on a large screen. This requires the courage to revisit the sources from which all Christian hope springs: rediscovering their life-giving power. That power rises from the counterintuitive affirmations of the gospel represented in Christ's incarnation, his healing the afflicted, his raising the dead, his vulnerability, his cross, resurrection, and universal restoration. Acts 3:21 preaching and worship that embodies and lifts up the hard parts. The life-giving parts are neither fundamentalist nor an exercise in nostalgia; it is rather evidence of confidence in the triune God who makes the unknowable known. The good shepherd promised: "My sheep hear my voice; I know them, and they follow me." John 10:27 and when they do, they will.

western culture no longer has a broad christian understanding in fact much of what american media dishes out is pantheistic or anti religious sociological research indicates that a multitude of beliefs have crept into christian understandings of faith this situation is not new as early as the fifteenth century erasmus asserted that the greatest concern of his time was that christians were most often rank heathens when it came to their orthodoxy it is also apparent that attendance at sunday school vacation bible school and other gatherings has fallen at a great rate the author believes providing christian education in the context of worship is therefore the best opportunity for reaching believers with historical elements of faith a twenty four part lectionary based catechetical curriculum is provided for worship with it congregations can dwell in a sermon series that is surrounded by supportive full bodied worship
