when president habyarimana's jet was shot down in april 1994 rwanda erupted into a hundred day orgy of killing which left up to a million dead fergal keane travelled through the country as the genocide was continuing and his powerful analysis reveals the terrible truth behind the headlines a tender angry account as well as being a scathing indictment keane says the genocide inflicted on the tutsis was planned well in advance by hutu leaders this is a graphic view of news gathering in extremis it deserves to become a classic independent rwanda this small country located in the center of africa was filled with human blood in 1994 extremist rwandans killed about 1 million people in only one hundred days about 3 million fled rwanda into exile in democratic republic of congo ex zaire where they would be killed by the rwandan patriotic army from 1996 until 1998 this book is about a testimony of two boys who survived these massacres in which they had lost both their parents who were killed in the forests of the congo the older boy 7 years old at that time had to take care of his little brother a newborn whose mother was killed only a couple hours after his birth miraculously they both traveled the entire country of the congo and came back to rwanda once in their home country of rwanda in their own home village the neighbours who wanted to keep their inheritance accused them of committing genocide in 1994 but at the time of this heinous crime the older brother was only 5 years old and his little brother was not born yet to survive the attacks harassment and terror of these neighbours ancient refugees from uganda they became street kids where i met them a stunning work of investigative reporting by a canadian journalist who has risked her own life to bring us a deeply disturbing history of the rwandan genocide that takes the true measure of rwandan head of state paul kagame through unparalleled interviews with rpf defectors former soldiers and atrocity survivors supported by documents leaked from a un court judi rever brings us the complete history of the rwandan genocide considered by the international community to be the saviours who ended the hutu slaughter of innocent tutsis kagame and his rebel forces were also killing in quiet and in the dark as ruthlessly as the hutu genocidaire were killing in daylight the reason why the larger world community hasn't recognized this truth kagame and his top commanders effectively covered their tracks and post genocide rallied world guilt and played the heroes in order to attract funds to rebuild rwanda and to maintain and extend the tutsi sphere of influence in the region judi rever who has followed the story since 1997 has marshalled irrefutable evidence to show that kagame's own troops shot down the presidential plane on april 6 1994 the act that put the match to the genocidal flame and she proves without a shadow of doubt that as kagame and his forces slowly advanced on the capital of kigali they were ethnically cleansing the country of hutu men women and children in order that returning tutsi settlers displaced since the early 60s would have homes and land this book is heartbreaking chilling and necessary the continuation of a groundbreaking study of the rwandan genocide and the story of the survivor generation in rwanda from april to june 1994 800 000 tutsis were slaughtered by their hutu neighbors in the largest and swiftest genocide since world war ii in his previous books jean hatzfeld has documented the lives of the killers and victims but after twenty years he has found that the enormity of understanding doesn't stop with one generation in blood papa hatzfeld returns to the hills and marshes of nyamata to ask what has become of the children those who never saw the machetes yet have grown up in the shadow of tragedy fabrice sandra jean pierre and others share the genocide as a common inheritance some have known only their parents silence and lies enduring the harassment of classmates or the stigma of a father jailed for unspeakable crimes others have enjoyed a loving home and the sympathies offered to survivor children but do so without parents or an extended family the young rwandans in blood papa see each other in the neighborhood they dance and gossip frequent the same cafés and like teenagers everywhere love sports music and fashion they surf the net and dream of marriage yet hutu and tutsi children rarely speak of the ghosts that haunt their lives here their moving first person accounts combined with hatzfeld's arresting chronicles of everyday life form a testament to survival in a country devastated by the terrible crimes and trauma of the past the author talks about the testimony of two boys who successively lost their parents during the massacres in the republic democratic of congo drc former mobutu's zaire the older is an eleven year old boy and his little brother is four i have been orphaned for four years upon their return to rwanda from exile they had to flee again from their village where their lands and houses have been seized by new settlers who accused them as genocide perpetrators they have to live in the street with other kids they consider their brothers and sisters in his own words the elder boy says i have never had much opportunity in life you will be able to guess why later i am a street kid a mayibobo in my native language my address as well as my cell phone number because everyone needs a cell phone number is zero definitely zero i spend my nights under the bridges of kigali or under the canopy of high rises when the police aren't mean and chase me away i live perched like a bird my street companions aren't friends in the sense that i would share my food with them but they are my comrades we were fleeing death without realizing that he moved with us or behind us dressed in denim pants plastic boots and kepis and speaking kinyarwanda swahili or english these soldiers were so cruel instead of attacking the people who had the strength to run away they usually started with the weak who lagged behind this would include pregnant mothers children separated from their parents the old and the sick this book studies the role of christian churches in the 1994 rwandan genocide timothy longman's research shows that rwandan churches have consistently allied themselves with the state and engaged in ethnic politics making them a center of struggle over power and resources he argues that the genocide in rwanda was a conservative response to progressive forces that were attempting to democratize christian churches britain's hidden role in the rwandan genocide examines the role of the united kingdom as a global elite bystander to the crime of genocide and its complicity in violation of international criminal laws during the rwandan genocide of 1994 as prevailing accounts confine themselves to the role and actions of the united states and the united nations the full picture of rwanda's genocide has yet to be revealed hazel cameron demonstrates that it is the unravelling of the criminal role and actions of the british that illuminates a more detailed answer to the question of why the genocide in rwanda occurred in this book she provides a systematic and detailed analysis of the policies of the british government towards civil unrest in rwanda throughout the 1990s that culminated in genocide utilising documentary evidence obtained as a result of freedom of information requests to the foreign and commonwealth office as well as material obtained through extensive interviews with british government cabinet members diplomats ambassadors to the united nations security council prisoners in rwanda convicted of being leaders and organisers of genocide and victims and survivors of genocide in rwanda the author finds that the actions of the british and french governments both before and during the rwandan genocide of 1994 were disassociated from human rights norms it is suggested herein that the decision making of the major government during the period of 1990-1994 was for the advancement of the interrelated goals of maintaining power status and ensuring economic interests in key areas of africa this account of the legal culpability of the powerful within the corridors of government in both london and paris shows that these behaviours cannot be conceptualised under existing notions of state crime this book serves to illuminate the inadequacies and limitations of a concept of state crime in international law as it currently stands and will be of considerable interest to anyone concerned with the misuse of state power
