this beautifully illustrated book looks at three exemplary traditions in poetic painting bringing new understanding of the relationship between the art and the societies that produced it

david porter s approach to horace s most important lyric collection is through a close sequential reading of the eighty eight poems in odes 1 3 taking into account the way an ancient book was read or recited this view of the work as a continuously unfolding creation reveals a strong sense of forward movement and of thematic development at times almost a narrative flow originally published in 1987 the princeton legacy library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of princeton university press these editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions the goal of the princeton legacy library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by princeton university press since its founding in 1905 in vain i have struggled it will not do my feelings will not be repressed you must allow me to tell you how ardently i admire and love you pride and prejudice by jane austen changes in society beginning in the 18th century and continuing into our own time underlie the romantic movement it starts as a reaction against the intellectualism of the enlightenment against the rigidity of social structures protecting privilege and against the materialism of an age which in the first stirring of the industrial revolution already shows signs of making workers the slaves of machinery and of creating squalid urban environments this book embodies a sequence of closely related essays which explore the modern poet s uneasy awareness of a tradition the romantic tradition with which he must contend the author s premise is that the romantic age extends from the divine comedy through wordsworth to eliot the roots of contemporary questions about the self and alienation are seen to extend at least as far back as dante who is the first poet to choose the ego as a focus for poetry of epic dimensions in the course of the study montgomery considers the growing emphasis upon the self s becoming the focus of poetry until this shift culminated in the literature of the most autobiographical century in western letters the twentieth dante wordsworth and eliot are discussed at length individually and in relation to one another as principal instances of the reflective poet the critic also considers other illustrative figures such as Milton Coleridge Keats Whitman Pound Joyce and Hemingway these and other writers have traveled along the romantic road anticipated by the divine comedy finally the author suggests the road may end in a labyrinth so far as the contemporary writer is concerned in his increasing concern with the problems of the self and of the mind the poet has been forced to invent new modes and techniques which as the author demonstrates grow out of his response to the psychological and metaphysical preoccupations of his age reading art from a semiotic perspective this book offers a new interpretation of the development of Chinese landscape painting and outlines a new framework for contemporary semiotics and critical theory it will appeal to those interested in visual art Chinese studies critical theory semiotics and other relevant fields and will allow the reader to learn how to put theory into the practice of studying art how to give new life to an important theory and how to acquire a new point of view in appreciating and enjoying art with a certain critical theory
