brand of revolution gradually and movingly unfold in his earlier shadows and wolves new directions 1980 herrick showed us the possibility of human solutions that transcend politics in love and terror he shows us why any ideology inflexibly adhered to makes such solutions necessary

9 11 fiction empathy and otherness analyzes recent works of fiction whose principal subject is the attacks of september 11 2001 the readings of the novels question and assess the validity and potential effectiveness of both the subsequent calls for a cosmopolitan outlook and the related but no less significant emphasis placed on empathy and exhibited in such recent studies as jeremy rifkin s the empathic civilization karsten stueber s rediscovering empathy and julinna oxley s the moral dimensions of empathy as such this study examines the extent to which us and them narratives proliferated after 9 11 and the degree to which calls for greater empathy and a renewed emphasis on cosmopolitan values served to counterbalance an apparent movement towards increased polarization encapsulated in the oft mentioned clash of civilizations a principal objective of the book is thus to examine the ethical and political implications revealed in the exercising or withholding of empathy for though empathy in and of itself may not be sufficient it is nevertheless a vital component in the generation of actions one might identify as cosmopolitan in other words this book examines the responses to 9 11 in both western and non western novels in order to uncover what their dramatic renderings might tell us about the possibility of a truly globalized community the attainability of any cosmopolitan engagement is contingent upon our abilities to understand the other knowing always that otherness eludes our grasp and the best we can do is imagine some version of it it is primarily in this capacity that the novel has a role to play whether it is the challenge of connecting with the survivors of trauma and the inhabitants of a traumatized city or with a hyperpower that has experienced its own vulnerability for the first time or even with the terrorist who seeks to commit violent acts these novels afford us the means of examining the complex dynamics involved in any exhibition of fellow feeling for the other and the ever present potential failure of that engagement the years following the attacks of september 11 2001 have seen the publication of a wide range of scientific analyses of terrorism literary studies seem to lag curiously behind this general shift of academic interest the present volume sets out to fill this gap it does so in the conviction that the study of literature has much to offer to the transdisciplinary investigation of terror not only with respect to the present post 9 11 situation but also with respect to earlier historical contexts literary texts are media of cultural self reflection and as such they have always played a crucial role in the discursive response to terror both contributing to and resisting dominant conceptions of the causes motivations dynamics and aftermath of terrorist violence by bringing together experts from various fields and by combining case studies of works from diverse periods and national literatures the volume literature and terrorism chooses a diachronic and comparative perspective it is interested in the specific cultural work performed by narrative and dramatic literature in the face of terrorism focusing on literature's ambivalent relationship to other competing modes of discourse
