the reproach is commonly brought against musical biographies that they are monotonous and indeed the life of the musician has not often afforded much scope for incident or variety if he be a composer he treads the accustomed course of early struggles hard earned victories and posthumous fame if he be a virtuoso his career is one triumphal progress which leaves little to record except the successive trophies that he has planted and the successive laurels that he has won the concentration required by his art removes him in some degree from the stir and stress of public events for the most part he dwells in an ideal city of his own and breathes the more freely when he has shut its gates upon the world to this it may be added that the biographers of our great musicians have too often tended to merge the historian in the advocate they are full of a generous enthusiasm for their subject they are anxious above all things to present it in an attractive light but they sometimes neglect cromwell s advice to sir peter lely and spoil their portrait by giving it a classic regularity of feature no doubt every biographer is something of a partisan it is no use writing a man s life unless you think well of him but the worst of all ways to arouse interest in your hero is to represent him on a faultless paladin and to treat as a paynim and a miscreant everyone who ever offered him the least opposition no man can build the monument of departed greatness if he is using up all the stones to pelt his adversaries an author's summary 1888 four essays written between 1890 and 1898 eight lectures between 1909 and 1921 cw 271 the challenge of saying something about art was personal for rudolf steiner he experienced it as deeply connected with his biography it is not for nothing that in the last lecture of this volume he points to his repeated attempts to develop a new approach and new forms of expression for speaking about art we find at least three forms of this attempted approach in this book zvi szir from the introduction the subject practice and vital importance of art was a thread that ran through rudolf steiner's life from his early work as a scholar of goethe through his time as an editor of a literary and arts journal in berlin in the 1890s and to his two and a half decades as a spiritual researcher and teacher understanding and articulating the significance of art was a perennial challenge for rudolf steiner this volume of steiner's collected works is unique in that it showcases a survey of both early written works and later lectures to anthroposophic audiences and in doing so presents a picture of a lifetime of intensive effort to convey something essential about the arts beginning with his early philosophical work and literary criticism at the end of the nineteenth century and on into his later lectures this volume follows steiner's endeavor to reveal in words the mystery obscured by the vague concept of what art is viewed as a whole this volume forms one of the most provocative collections of the twentieth century on the subject of art it offers a unique analysis of the origin foundation and method of the creative process this book is a translation of kunst und kunsterkenntnis grundlagen einer neuen Ästhetik 3rd edition published by rudolf steiner verlag dornach switzerland 2010 ga 271
