food what we eat how much we eat how it is produced and prepared and its cultural and ecological significance is an increasingly significant topic not only for scholars but for all of us theology on the menu is the first systematic and historical assessment of christian attitudes to food and its role in shaping christian identity david grumett and rachel muers unfold a fascinating history of feasting and fasting food regulations and resistance to regulation the symbolism attached to particular foods the relationship between diet and doctrine and how food has shaped inter religious encounters everyone interested in christian approaches to food and diet or seeking to understand how theology can engage fruitfully with everyday life will find this book a stimulus and an inspiration weaves together the author's observations on vegetarianism from the bible and backed by scientific citations the early eucharist has usually been seen as sacramental eating of token bread and wine in careful or even slavish imitation of jesus and his earliest disciples in fact the evidence suggests great diversity in its conduct including the use of foods in the first few hundred years eucharistic meals involving cheese milk salt oil and vegetables are attested and some have argued that even fish was used the most significant exception to using bread and wine however was a bread and water christian meal an ancient ascetic form of the eucharist this tradition also involved rejection of meat from general diet and reflected the concern of dissident communities to avoid the cuisine meat and wine characteristic of pagan sacrifice this study describes and discusses these practices fully for the first time and provides important new insights into the liturgical and social history of early christianity over the past decade there has been a remarkable flowering of interest in food and nutrition both within the popular media and in academia scholars are increasingly using foodways food systems and eating habits as a new unit of analysis within their own disciplines and students are rushing into classes and formal degree programs focused on food introduced by the editor and including original articles by over thirty leading food scholars from around the world the routledge international handbook of food studies offers students scholars and all those interested in food related research a one stop easy to use reference guide each article includes a brief history of food research within a discipline or on a particular topic a discussion of research methodologies and ideological or theoretical positions resources for research including archives grants and fellowship opportunities as well as suggestions for further study each entry also explains the logistics of succeeding as a student and professional in food studies this clear direct handbook will appeal to those hoping to start a career in academic food studies as well as those hoping to shift their research to a food related project strongly interdisciplinary this work will be of interest to students and scholars throughout the social sciences and humanities the routledge encyclopedia of ancient mediterranean religions is the first comprehensive single volume reference work offering authoritative coverage of ancient religions in the mediterranean world chronologically the volume s scope extends from pre historical antiquity in the third millennium b c e through the rise of islam in the seventh century c e an interdisciplinary approach draws out the common issues and elements between and among religious traditions in the mediterranean basin key features of the volume include detailed maps of the mediterranean world ancient egypt the roman empire and the hellenistic world a comprehensive timeline of major events innovations and individuals divided by region to provide both a diachronic and pan mediterranean synchronic view a broad geographical range including western asia northern africa and southern europe this encyclopedia will serve as a key point of reference for all students and scholars interested in ancient mediterranean culture and society scholars of religion have always been fascinated by asceticism scholars have often been overlooked however that in the history of religions ascetic beliefs and practices have also been strongly criticised by followers of the same religious tradition as well as by outsiders the respective sources provide sufficient evidence of such critical strands but surprisingly as yet no attempt has been made to analyse this criticism of asceticism systematically this book is a first attempt of filling this gap ten studies present cases from both asian and european traditions classicaland medieval hinduism early and contemporary buddhism in south and east asia
